Touring throughout Europe, videos with the Creators Project, remixes driving clubs wild around the globe, tracks with John Stanier (Battles), The National and more coming soon... In 2013, Rone's musical universe expanded to include live shows, new mixes of genres and styles, collaborations and a lot of travelling, culminating in a sold out show at Paris' huge, prestigious Olympia concert venue.

In 2014 it's goodbye Berlin - Rone has built a new studio in France to work on the follow-up to "Tohu Bohu", but there's no way to keep him in one place. On 7th April 2014, he'll be celebrating the release of his new single whilst on his first proper American tour, including a concert at the legendary Coachella festival. Apache contains three brand new tracks.

On the A-side, Bachi-Bouzouk asserts itself as a weapon for the dancefloor - a few crystalline notes before a sleazy acid loop drags the listener through its infinite variations. Time for a break: the particular alchemy that characterises some of Rone's most intimate productions - thoughtful mutations you could call them - can be found on Apache, a new, deliciously cerebral ballad. On the B-side the celestial introduction of Origin soon transforms into an infernal torrent of noise and abstract tones.

US 2014 TOUR: 3rd April - Glassland (New York), 4th Apr - Belmont (Montreal), 6th Apr - MCA (Detroit), 8th April Schubas (Chicago), 9th Echo (Los Angeles), 10th Folsom (San Francisco), 12th Coachella - Do Lab Stage (Indio)
