Rone continues to take us on a tour of his radiant citadel "Mirapolis." This time guided alongside his synthesisers, by the voice of Noga Erez, the Tel Aviv writer performer on "Wave" on three different remix paths.

The Remix by Parisian beatmaker Sorg (stage and studio partner of Cincinnati-based rapper/beatboxer: Napoleon Maddox), "Wave" is carried away in a storm of bleeps, loops and distortions. Locked Groove, who's are leaders (alongside Tales of Us and Scuba) of their melodic but pacy techno scene, inject a hypnotic and sedative serum into the original, particularly adapted to the expectations of the dancefloor surfers. Brooklyn producer Negative Gemini, spotted in the Anglo-Saxon blogosphere, following the release of her fascinating EP "Bad Baby" on 100% Electronica, creates an ambient re-reading in the modern sense. Both ethereal and dynamic, breaking the surface you find your arms in the air and head in the stars.

In conclusion, we find "Wave" original version, edited especially for Rone's new clip, realized by the "mad" swiss Greg Barth, which will be released on May 17th on Apple Music, and May 30th on YouTube.
