

infiné

Within a fistful of years, London based DJ and producer jozif has built a solid reputation for himself. Eccentric as well as charismatic, his groove-driven sets have brought severe damage on some of the most hard to please dancefloors of Planet Earth. As a producer, jozif sails in a sea of strange atmospheres, wrapped up in white noise, equally organic and electronic, deep blue, deep disco, deep house, deep techno...

For over a year now, jozif and Agoria had been swapping their own productions, including the incredibly funky “Back to my Roots” tracklisted on the Balance016 compilation released in May 2010. It was time for InFiné to release a good old vinyl record, compiling four huge tracks, which sums up the sound of now. Sunrise Ep, the orgasmic groove of your winter!

The EP opens itself with the eponym title, “Sunrise”. Think about a quiet awakening after a drunken night out. A deep kick and some trippy strings pads enlighten a smooth piano and directly drive the listener to a peaceful after party mood. The perfect soundtrack for a heavenly beach!

Then comes “Suddenly Somethin”, some 80’s snares, a funky guitar and a melody, which runs through your veins and remains in the head. A funky revelation indeed!

“Natural Nature” submerges its listener with a scary but enjoyable darkness, where glitches and white noises blend with weird organic sounds, wild roars, disturbing birdcalls, vegetal waterfalls... Some electrifying bass blasts come up to swell the sound. A celestial bass line slowly introduced an oriental female voice. The journey goes on.

“Cathy’s Diamonds” amazingly concludes the EP with some highly groovy sensations. Elegant and vintage, jozif’s bells, shakers and sunny bass lines push the Disco to a very exciting new era. A jewel to warm your dancefloors up this winter!
